Dr. Wilkins, the leading authority on the Moon, spent sixteen years preparing what is universally recognised as the standard Map of the Moon. In these pages, he takes the reader to the eyepieces of some of the world's largest telescopes and illustrates his descriptions with drawings and maps, most of which were made especially for this book. The author concludes with a fascinating study of the evidence for lunar changes and possible life forms. P. 180, black and white photo cover + 5 more photographs and 20 drawings, maps on the endpapers.
